

Excellence in Clinical Science Teaching Award

Definition of Excellence in Clinical Teaching

A faculty member recognized for the Excellence in Clinical Teaching Award should be acknowledged as a person who:

- Displays expert and well-rounded knowledge of their clinical discipline
- Is distinguished by an unusual gift for clinical teaching
- Consistently serves as an effective and inspiring educator
- Is dedicated to the technical and intellectual development of their learners

Eligibility

All current members of the faculty of the School of Medicine with a clinical teaching role are eligible for this award, however, this award may only be conferred once upon an individual.

The Nomination Packet Consists of:

1. Nomination letter of no more than two (2) single-spaced, typewritten pages in 12-point font. In preparing your submission, please consider the purpose of the award and the definition of excellence in clinical teaching.
2. Current curriculum vitae.
3. SOM Teaching Grids for the past three (3) years.
4. Letter(s) of support from one or more individuals to whom the nominee reports for teaching responsibilities, if different from the nominator.

All members of the faculty or students of the School of Medicine may make nominations for this award.

Review

The nomination will be reviewed by the Excellence in Clinical Teaching Award Committee. A notification letter signed by the Dean of the School of Medicine will be sent to each nominee as recognition of his/her nomination.

Nominations

Nominations are to be submitted electronically in a bookmarked PDF to ofapd@wayne.edu.
